

your united team of collective strength

SAPN/Enerven Update 09/07/21

Congratulations again to every single one of you who voted no and protected your job security, your workmate's job security and your future workmate's job security.

This third no vote shows that the current leadership isn't listening to you, the workers. The negotiations have been a disaster from the beginning with UMPL choosing legal action, withdrawing from negotiations, and ignoring what is important to workers over negotiating a fair deal.

As the leader, the CEO, Rob Stobbe, is ultimately responsible for the direction the negotiations have gone in and the lack of respect that has been shown to workers. He has oversight and control of the management team and it is apparent that he has not been doing his job properly. The result is long-term damage being done to the workforce morale and the company's public image.

Such a display of failed leadership needs to be met with accountability, so we have written this letter to the Chairman of the Board calling for him to be held accountable: HERE

It is important we celebrate the achievement of another strong No vote, but it is equally important that we keep the pressure on UMPL.

The overtime bans are still in place and Work to Rule is still ongoing. We need to continue these important Protected Actions. We know that it's hurting UMPL and is going to continue making an impact.

Now is the time to stay strong, stick together and force UMPL back to the negotiating table to bargain a fair and reasonable Enterprise Agreement with the SBU.

Together, we've got this!

SAME WORK, LESS PAY, WE SAY, NO WAY!
